tips for teachers and counselors

- Convey to students a spirit of excitement about this event.
- Select all or some of the activities included in this booklet to complete with students. For more ideas, visit Start Where You Are Professional (see link at www.vsac.org).
- Discuss with students the intended outcomes for your career event, including:
  1. knowledge of personal characteristics, interests, aptitudes, and skills
  2. awareness of and respect for the diversity of the world of work
  3. understanding of the relationship between school performance and future choices
  4. understanding of personal goal-setting and decision-making patterns and attitudes
- Encourage students to research careers that interest them.
- If possible, provide students with a list of presenters so students can research presenters’ careers prior to event.
- Prepare students to come to the career event prepared with questions for presenters.
- Invite parents to attend.
- Go to www.vsac.org to search for career resources, including the following:
  1. Start Where You Are
  2. VT Guidance Central
  3. VSAC Resource Center Library online collection
  4. Pathfinders
  5. The VSAC Resource Center library online catalog

After the event

Follow up with students to deepen their understanding of what they learned.

1. Have each student write him/herself a letter (lesson plan included).
2. Have students write thank-you notes to presenters.
3. Arrange job shadows. For tips and ideas, visit www.uwplatt.edu/career center/resources/job shadow.pdf.
4. Have your students make collages, posters, or Web pages for younger students, to introduce particular careers that interested them.
5. Have students write a short article about the career fair for the school newspaper or a local newspaper.
6. In a “my story” assignment, ask students to discuss who they are, what inspires them, whom they admire, how they want to influence their communities, etc. Encourage them to present their stories in any format that appeals to them: short essay, film, audio interview, Web page, etc.
When I am older, I may want to work as a ...

The things in my life that I value most are ...

One way that my life will be different from my parents’ life is ...

One thing from my current life that I want to maintain is ...

The best reason for thinking about continuing my education is ...

My number-one wish for my future self is ...
Objective: Students will be able to identify their values, explain why they hold those values, and identify the ways those values relate to career choices.

Grade level: 6–10

Teacher prep time: 5–10 minutes

Class time: 30 minutes

Materials: String

Format: Group setting within the classroom

Procedure

• Prior to class, set up a string across the room.
• Explain to students the concept of a continuum.
• With each question, ask students to stand on or near the point on the string that best describes them (their answers to the questions).
• For each question, ask students at the farthest extremes — and perhaps a few students in the middle — to explain their positions.

Questions

1. How willing are you to work very hard for what you want?
   Very — I’ll stick with it and give it my best.
   Not very — I give up easily or am lazy.

2. How do you feel about school? Could you see yourself continuing after high school — or even after college?
   I like school so much that I could see myself staying in school for years.
   I might get my degree and begin working soon.

3. How comfortable are you working independently?
   I love working alone.
   I enjoy working with other people.

4. Would you rather have a 9–5 job that stays separate from your life, or would you rather have your job and your life be one and the same?
   I want my job and my life to be separate.
   I want my job and my life to overlap. (You are what you do!)

5. How important will your job be, compared to your family?
   Work is most important.
   Family is all-important.
6. Which is more important, personal fulfillment or material gain?
   Personal satisfaction, self-fulfillment, using my abilities
   Material success: money, security, power, prestige

7. How often do you think about your future?
   Very often
   “Future? What future?”

Questions to use for processing
As students sit down, have them think about the following:
- Which question was the easiest to answer?
- Were there any for which you felt conflicted, or any for which both answers were true for you?
- How do these questions relate to careers and what you might do for a living?
- What did you learn about yourself? (Ask students to write down one thing they learned from the exercise.)

NCDA guidelines for personal social development
- develop an understanding of yourself to build and maintain a positive self-image
- begin the first steps in career management
- use a process of decision-making as one component of career development
- use accurate, current, and unbiased career information during career planning

| 10. | Did your dreams come true? Why? Why not? |
| 11. | If you could have your dream career today, what would it be? |
Objective: Students will be able to identify their values and the ways those values relate to career choices.

Grade level: grades 7–12

Expectations of students upon completion of activity
• Students will determine their values and decide what’s important in a future career choice.
• Based on their worksheet results, students will develop three questions to ask presenters/business people at a career fair.

Teacher prep time: 10–15 minutes

Class time: 30 minutes

Materials
• worksheets
• pens and pencils

Format: Group setting within the classroom

Procedure
• Prior to class, look over the worksheet “What do you look for in a job?” (see attached) to become familiar with the activity and what it entails.
• Have students complete the worksheet.
• Have the students discuss what’s important and not important to them in a job.
